

2015 LRCTG Awards Category Announcements

1 Company Training Plan

Winner – Hutton Construction Ltd

This award was selected to recognise a company that has worked hard on its company training plan and has been judged by the CITB company development advisors and the group training officer.

It doesn't mean that the other members are not doing well! but this firm stood out this year for its continued actual delivery against its targets.

2 Company Commitment to Training

All firms attending tonight are here because they have a commitment to training but we wanted an award to recognise particular success within an organisation, as judged by the CITB company development advisors.

It was good to see that this year a number of names were put forward by the GTA's –and we are pleased to announce that there are 3 highly commended companies;

Harringtons Builders PLC

Concrete Repairs Ltd

Triton Building Restoration Ltd

But the overall winner is

Chas Berger and sons Ltd

3 Training Provider

The training group has worked with a number of different training provider companies and educational establishments this year and we are pleased to announce that a highly commended award has been given to;

Barking & Dagenham College

And the overall winner for 2015 is;

STS Health & Safety Ltd

4 Training Initiative

This year we have looked at organisations who have maybe gone beyond what they would normally be expected to do as well as organisations that have developed initiatives that produces results and that grab the attention of people inside and outside the industry.

We have awarded a highly commended to;

The CITB for supporting delivery of the new careers advice website “GO Construct”

And

Barking & Dagenham College for their “Industry Speaks and BDC listens” campaign – where they actively encourage industry to tell them what they should be doing better!

And overall winner is

K & M McLoughlin Decorating Ltd for their very successful K&M Training 5 week programme which aims to give young people an insight in to the decorating world and the construction industry, to help prepare work ready employees.

5 The London Award

This award has been chosen to recognise an organisation or an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to training and development in the London Region over the last year and possibly beyond.

This year the award has been awarded to The Building Crafts College due to their longstanding tradition and on-going commitment to delivering traditional building craft skills, including stone masonry, fine joinery and cabinet making. The award recognises the fact that these skills are still needed in the industry today despite the innovation that is all around us.

6 Training Achievement

This category was chosen to again recognise an achievement within an organisation or individual who has continued to excel throughout a defined training programme and who has been able to demonstrate actual recognised achievement.

From a number of applications this year’s award goes to Michael Filletti who has stayed with his training programme whilst at Firmco and has progressed right through a BSc and is now on route to full professional membership of the Chartered Institute of Building.

7 Management Trainee

This category has also been chosen to recognise individuals who have stuck to their management training paths and recognises that you can succeed after making difficult decisions to change education and academic career paths.

This year we have a highly commended award for;

Gary Humphries of Carris Utility Solutions

And the overall winner for 2015 is Oliver Davis of Roof Ltd

8 Best Performance – Continual Improvement

This award recognises real success from continual improvement that can be gained from hard work and commitment. It also recognises people who have made considerable life changing decisions and maybe turned their lives around even though the path may not have always be smooth.

This year there are 2 highly commended awards;

Frankie Notaro of K&M, Decorating and also

Ricky Williams of K& M Decorating

But the overall winner this year is

Jolene Matthews of Carris Utility Solutions

9 Trainee of the year

This award recognises trainees from any discipline within our members but this year we are delighted that we had nominations for women in construction and we are delighted that a highly commended has been awarded to a young lady that has excelled at her academic studies with distinctions throughout 4 years of a National Certificate and then a Higher National Certificate;

Melissa Agamemnonos from Roof Ltd

And the overall winner for 2015 is another young lady who has exceeded all expectations and we are delighted that the award goes to

Amelia Rodriguez of K&M Decorating

10 Apprentice of the year

This was a close fought for category with many worthy entrants who have completed or are on a pathway to completing an apprenticeship in their chosen discipline.

This year we are delighted make a highly commended award to Dominic Owers of Roof Ltd who is on his way to completing his construction plant apprenticeship level 3

And the overall winner for 2015 is a man who has continued to strive for excellence in all that he does and has continued to impress his employers throughout his training and the award goes to Michael Poulloura of Neilcott Construction.
